To whom it may concern:

It is with great honor that I write this letter of recommendation for Elena Aglaganova. I first became associated with Elena during her first year of nursing school at Lone Star College. During this time, I watched her grow in confidence, develop her nursing skills, and exhibit knowledge and critical thinking in various critical situations. In her clinical rotations, Elena exemplified diligence and respect in caring for his patients and family members. She constantly sought new opportunities to influence her learning. Elena is willing to ask questions when she is unsure of tasks and often engages as a team player. Her dedication to teamwork will prove beneficial as she enters the nursing profession. She interacts well with her colleagues and staff and has excellent communication skills with her patients. She works well in team projects and has expressed leadership skills in even the most challenging situations.

Elena is caring, confident, professional, compassionate, and flexible. She is a quick thinker and able to utilize clinical judgment and critical thinking to seek the best patient care outcomes. Elena is flexible and open to learning in any area she is placed.

Thank you for your time and it is with the highest regard that I recommend Elena to your distinguished Nurse Residency program. Elena will be an amazing nurse and will serve as a beneficial asset to your organization. She will consistently portray her strongest characteristics as she seeks a position in the Nurse Residency program that utilizes his extensive knowledge as a new graduate nurse. Elena is an ideal candidate for any nursing internship that she pursues, and I'm honored to have been his instructor.

Sincerely,

Dr. Torina Lane
